Bouvry Exports is the largest horse slaughterhouse in Canada and frequently referred to as the “Gold Standard” for horse slaughter. Thus we were shocked to see hidden camera footage shot at the plant collected on a randomly selected day showing a filthy girder above the stun box, a high rate of horses slipping and falling over and over again, a high ineffective stunning rate, and a worker being kicked and injured by a reviving horse on the bleed-rail.

We were also shocked to see that none of the horses were checked for insensibility and in fact, many suffered for seconds to minutes as they revived before the suspender noticed them and called to the shooter for a second (or sometimes third) shot. Even when the shooter was aware and verbally acknowledged that a horse had not been rendered insensible (Horse 133) he continued to leave the horse to suffer. Some of these horses were even partially suspended – their rear leg shackled and hung with their heads left dangling in the blood about to be fully raised and stuck in the jugular, before the suspender finally realized that the horse was still suffering.

The following sections lay out our many concerns with Bouvry Exports.

Fear-Inducing Environment

Noise

Noise levels are ear-piercingly high in the plant – from the machinery, compressors and saws, but also from a radio, which is turned up even more loudly after the lunch break. The volume is so high that its sound becomes distorted. As horses rely on sound as their second most important sense, this is very likely distressing for them. It also seems likely that the noise presents both a risk to the workers' hearing and poses a hazard to being able to hear important messages between workers. It has also been shown that the body's reaction to noise is similar to its response when under stress. Blood pressure and heart rates can increase and hormone and blood cholesterol levels can change. Exposure to too much noise can make a person feel tired, posing an additional safety hazard to both the workers and horses.

Horses' Response

The horses appear fearful in this environment and vocalizing is present. Vocalizing is prevalent throughout the day but increases markedly after the lunch break when the music volume has been turned up. Many horses whinny multiple times while in the stun box.

To compound the agitation, horses are sometimes left in the blood-smeared stun box for long periods of time, with one horse left for nine minutes as a worker uses a shovel to scrape up horse remains immediately beside his feet.

As the day progressed and the stun box became more covered in blood, the horses became more resistant to entering it so had to be pushed from behind.

Humane Transport Violations

As many as 10 horses are seen still wearing metal shoes on their rear legs. This poses a welfare risk to horses transported or penned with these animals as they may be kicked and injured or, should they go down, be trampled, possibly to death.

Hot-Branding of Horses

Many of the horses have the distinctive "Bar S" brand on their left shoulders, indicating that they spent at least some time at the Bouvry-owned horse feedlot in Shelby, Montana where in 2002, 40 horses drowned to death in their own waste and mud.

The brands were created through burning as the hair under them is dark.

At least one horse (perhaps two) appears to have had a brand removed from its neck. This U.S. based horse has a cut-out patch with raw skin beneath. Wild mustangs are branded on their necks and are protected under the "Restore Our American Mustangs" (ROAM) Act, H.R. 1018, legislation that protects wild horses and burros from commercial sale and slaughter. We do not yet know with certainty that this is what the horse(s) is.

Improperly Designed Stun Box

As seen at both Natural Valley Farms (now bankrupt) and Richelieu, a standard cattle stun box is used for the horses.

Many horses are hesitant to lift their heads. On these animals, the shooter uses the swinging side door of the stun box to hit and startle them in an attempt to get them to raise their head. More often than not, this adds to the horses' fear and hesitation to raise their head. These horses frequently require a second shot as the first is ineffective because of the horse's down-turned face. Horse 91, who suffers for 20 seconds with a bullet lodged in her face is an example of this.

One horse (Horse 103) is trembling so badly in the stun box that he falls over and over again. He reaches his head out of the head stanchion and is continually pushed back by the shooter with the barrel of the gun. In an effort to restrain him, the shooter continually squeezes the swinging door into the horse until his feet are lifted completely from the ground. The horse frantically attempts to regain his footing, thrashing about in the stun box for nearly two minutes. This makes an already difficult accurate hit that much more difficult.

Falling

A number of horses fall such that their entire body is on the ground (slips were not counted). Some fall because of the slippery blood-smeared floor of the stun box which is never cleaned out throughout the day. Others tremble so severely, their legs give out. These horses may stumble and fall over and over again for up to two minutes until the shooter finally takes a shot. Consequently it is the most frightened horses who often end up being incorrectly shot. Horse 135 is an example of this. Because the shot grazes off the top of his moving forehead he must be shot again.

Line Speed

The line speed at Bouvry Exports is such that one horse is processed every two minutes in the morning and sped up to one every one-and-a-half minutes after the lunch break. The rifle is used merely to stun the horses, so sufficient bleed-out time is critical. However, at Bouvry Exports the horses have their feet cut off just seconds after their throat has been slit, causing us to question whether they have sufficient time to reach unconsciousness before being butchered. Some are seen moving while being bled out.

Improper Stuns

In total, 13 of 189 horses are not rendered unconscious after the first shot. They suffer for varying lengths of time – thrashing around in the stun box until the shooter is able to deliver a second or third shot.

As with Viandes Richelieu, a .22 rifle is used at Bouvry Exports. We have the same concerns over velocity, trajectory and correct angle.

The shooter is standing on the ground at a lower level than most horses in the stun box. This position of the shooter equates to many horses not shot correctly and thus not rendered unconscious. According to the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture, Food and Rural Affairs (OMAFRA) diagram below, the angle of the shot should be from above, directed downwards and at an angle towards the spine of the horse. The positioning, however, at both Bouvry Exports and Viandes Richelieu, is incorrect as the shooter stands lower than the horses' heads. While we cannot see the shooter in the footage, we also do not see the muzzle of the gun close to the horses' heads as is required. Thus, horses are also shot from a further distance, greater than the recommended one to two inches away from the horses' heads.

OMAFRA Diagram showing correct aim and angle of bullet to properly stun a horse.

Horses Entering Stun Box Backwards

Again, as at Richelieu, some horses are pushed into the stun box backwards and thus must be shot from the entrance in front of the other horses standing in the kill line.

One such horse is Horse 133. This horse is first shot from above after the shooter ascends the stairs to the platform above the stun box that is normally used only on the days the facility kills bison. However, the horse remains standing after the first shot so the shooter is forced to descend the stairs, grab another bullet and ascend the stairs again.

Unfortunately for the horse, the shooter drops the bullet and must repeat the entire process. With the second bullet securely in the gun the shooter shoots the horse a second time but again he continues thrashing in the stun box. The shooter curses but does not shoot him again.

The horse's movements slow but then he begins thrashing and stands again. The horse, still backwards in the stun box, repeatedly slinks down then frantically revives. No one seems aware of this, although the shooter seemed clear in understanding that he had not successfully rendered him insensible and yet no one looks in on him.

Finally the shackler starts squeezing him under the swinging door and begins to shackle his rear leg. He sees his face trapped under the door, then yells to the shooter that he needs another shot.

A third shot is finally delivered – some four minutes after the first shot.

Other Improper Stuns

Another horse (Horse 31) is flipped over backwards in the stun box from the force of the bullet, but not rendered unconscious. He attempts to stand back up, facing the wrong way, flailing in the stun box. The gun operator is required to go to the other side to try to shoot him again, but because of the design of the stun box and the long barrel of the rifle is not able to shoot again until after the horse suffers for a full minute and a half.

Horse 33 is shot three times. He remains standing after the first two shots and is finally delivered a third shot after nearly one full minute of suffering with two bullets lodged in his head.

Horse 81 revives after the first shot and thrashes in the stun box for 45 seconds before the shooter is made aware to deliver a second shot. The worker suspending the horses yells “Hey! Hey! Hey!” to alert the shooter, who finally comes around and reshoots the horse.

Horse 102 is shot incorrectly and sits up, his face covered in blood. He is reshot 38 seconds later.

Horse 150 is also not shot correctly. Again the suspender must yell to get the attention of the shooter, then indicate that the horse must be shot again. The horse kicks showing signs of consciousness for 30 seconds.

Horse 182 is also shot improperly and remains standing, shaking his head. He is again shot 25 seconds later.

Fractured Legs

At least two horses sustain fractured legs from the poor design of the stun box and/or from being violently thrown off their feet by the speed of the bullet. Given that the bullet is only intended to stun the horses, this is an unacceptable risk to expose the horses to suffering, and a violation of the humane slaughter regulations (as per 80.(b) of the Meat Inspection Act).

Dangerous Working Environment

The loud and chaotic environment, the lack of attention to the consciousness of the horses before suspending them and the inaccuracy of the .22 rifle creates a dangerous workplace for the workers.

Horse 177 continually reaches out to the shooter through the head stanchion and must be pushed back. She is shot incorrectly but suspended regardless. Breath condensation from rhythmic breathing can clearly be seen while her head is left dangling in the blood and her rear leg is shackled and raised.

She begins struggling as she is suspended but the worker does not attend to her. After nearly a full minute of struggling she is finally shot a second time. She does not appear to be unconscious after this shot either as her breath is still clearly visible. The worker continues suspending and stabbing her none-the-less, even while she continues kicking.

Horse 178 enters the stun box immediately as Horse 177 is shot beside the box. She attempts to back out, but repeatedly falls. She is shot but struggles as the worker begins to suspend her. Faint breath puffs can be seen as her head is left dangling in the blood as the horse before her had been. She is suspended none-the-less. As the sticker begins to insert his knife, she kicks out and injures him. The sticker stumbles off-screen holding his abdomen, his arm held tightly against his body. The horse, suspended, flails about attempting to right herself.

The worker (off-screen) is heard yelling for help, then he stumbles back to the bleed-out area, collapsing and holding his stomach. Two workers run to him and ask what happened. He points to the suspended, struggling horse as he continues holding his stomach. The horse is finally lowered and reshot – some two minutes after struggling frantically while hung by one rear leg. The angle of this shot though again appears incorrect and the horse continues kicking.

She is again raised by her leg and stuck in the jugular, but her face is turned up to the camera as she attempts to right herself. Some seconds after the blood begins to gush out she finally goes flaccid and her head falls down straight – this is three minutes after she is first shot.

Horse 179 enters the stun box exactly as the worker was kicked. The horse whinnies. The area is noisy with workers yelling back and forth, organizing a replacement worker for the injured sticker. The new sticker is brought in.

This is the man responsible for ensuring the horse is unconscious before suspending and sticking it – a critical job. He is heard to ask a question of one of the other workers who responds: “No, always look at the eyes. You could tell from the blinking!”- the extent of the training that we see before the workers commence with their jobs.

Horse 179 is shot but convulses. He is shot again 10 seconds later.

We have done our best at detailing the video in the attached Footage Index. The footage can be viewed in its entirety upon request and through shorter compilations available on our website at www.defendhorsescanada.org.

Slaughter Audit on Bouvry Exports
Based on Dr. Temple Grandin/American Meat Institute Audit
Fort Macleod, Alberta
Date of Kill: Friday, February 19, 2010

Core Criteria 1: Effective Stunning

95% accuracy is required for a passing score

Nearly 6.9% of horses (13 of 189) are mis-shot and show clear signs of revival in the form of remaining standing, standing back up, and/or head shaking. Not all of these are re-shot, some are re-shot once, and one is re-shot twice.

RESULT: FAIL

Core Criteria 2: Bleed Rail Insensibility

Any sensible animal on the bleed rail constitutes an automatic audit failure. It is critical that animals showing signs of a return to sensibility be restunned immediately.

0% tolerated

Two horses are mis-shot and regain consciousness after already having had their rear leg shackled and suspended. One suffers for at least two minutes but is never given a third shot. Instead the horse is stabbed even while kicking and rhythmically breathing. The next is also left to suffer, thrashing and attempting to right herself for four minutes.

RESULT: AUTOMATIC FAIL

Core Criteria 3: Slips and Falls (only Falls counted and only in the stun box)

1% or fewer falls are required for a passing score

3% of horses (6 of 189) fall, such that their body touches the floor. Some horses fall over and over again for up to a minute and a half.

RESULT: FAIL

Core Criteria 4: Vocalization

3% or less should vocalize (provoked by stress or agitation)

4.23% of horses (8 of 189) vocalize, some as frequently as up to five times while left in the stun box.

RESULT: FAIL

FOOTAGE INDEX BOUVRY

NOTES:

- Camera is located above stun box with a partial view of the bleed out area.
- Many of these horses have no shoes but appear to have trimmed feet indicating they were a companion to someone at one time.
- Loud radio playing (the day's play list has been provided by Radio Station 107.7 The River in Lethbridge, Alberta. It confirms that the footage was shot on February 19, 2010)

VIDEO 1- 07:35am

Horse 1

00:00 Black horse is suspended. He is thrashing heavily while bleeding out

Horse 2

00:12 Chestnut with blaze on face, green USDA sticker enters stun box.

00:40 Stun box door bounces off horse's side.

00:50 Stun box door bounces off horse's side again.

01:00 Horse looks up to right uses upper lip to feel along top of stun box side.

01:15 Pawing in stun box

01:21 Shot, door closed down on horse. Bleed out worker pushes button to release door to attach

Trembling on bleed rail.

Right hind leg visibly trembling while bleeding out

Horse 3

02:06 Large roan/gray, green USDA sticker

02:28 Shot then dragged under stun door. Door was not raised. Unshod, feet have not been trimmed in some time.

03:59 Convulsing during bleed out.

Horse 4

04:10 Chestnut/Appy type with white blaze, green USDA sticker enters stun box

04:27 Shot

05:26 Horse shakes from the withers to his flank while suspended.

05:50 Still movement.

06:46 Feet of 4 being cut off and thrown into bin (2 min past hit & < 1 min after shackling and stabbed

Horse 5

5:37 Bay, small white snip on face, well bred horse enters stun box, green USDA sticker. Looks nervously around, ears twitching.

05:55 Shot, can see impact of bullet on horse's face.

05:56 Rear legs kicking for 15 seconds until 06:11

06:18 Still in stun box and there is some front leg movement.
06:38 Horse shakes whole body noticeably
07:37 Stabbed for bleed out
08:20 Feet cut off which is clearly visible because they've been thrown on bloody floor. This was less than a minute after stabbing.

Was this sufficient time to bleed out? This only allowed 1 minute to bleed out before his feet were cut off.

Horse 6

07:30 Black horse with white blaze and white stocking on left fore leg. The horse appears almost paralyzed with fear as he/she enters box. He/she is not walking properly, very hesitant. Is nervously looking around.
08:11 Shot.
08:33 Horse still moving 22 seconds after being shot.

Horse 7

09:09 Bay gelding, TB type, no face markings, green USDA sticker, enters stun box. Ears twitching nervously.
09:40 Shot.
09:41 Convulsing on rail for several seconds (likely unconscious though)
10:14 Hoisted to bleed out

Horse 8

10:48 Bay mare, draft type, large white blaze on face. Enters stun box.
11:05 Shot.
11:54 There appears to be some movement of her right ear.

Horse 9

12:27 Bay, white stripe on face, green USDA sticker, enters stun box. Looking around nervously.
12:38 Shot.
13:00 Horse still has movement.
13:20 Hoisted to bleed out.

Horse 10

14:10 Small bay gelding with small white star on face, green USDA sticker enters stun box.
14:43 Horse leans way forward in stun box toward shooter.
15:13 Shot
15:25 Movement, horse sits up a little bit looking to his left post hit but then sinks back down.
16:34 Vigorous movement after stabbing.

Horse 11

16:16 Buckskin, gelding, green USDA sticker enters stun box. Stands quite calmly, sniffs the ground, looks at his friend hanging next to the stun box
17:05 Looks at the shooter with both ears pricked forward.
17:15 Shot
17:17 Horse is down but still moving.
17:43 Hoisted for bleed out.
17:50 Horse trembling violently

Horse 12

- 18:10 Dark chestnut mare, may be Belgian cross, white star with snip, green USDA sticker enters stun box.
- 18:28 Very agitated, very scared, pawing
- 19:15 Shot.
- 19:30 Still has some movement and slides out of stun box back first.
- 19:58 Still has movement, left hind leg kicks out as she's hoisted to bleed out. Short tail

Horse 13

- 21:19 Big draft type, gelding, bay with white strip on nose, green USDA sticker enters stun box slowly.
- 21:38 Shot.
- 21:39 Bleeding heavily, convulsing for over 30 seconds.

Horse 14

- 23:35 Large strawberry roan Appaloosa enters stun box
- 23:50 Shot
- 24:00 Thrashing past hit for 10 seconds.
- 24:47 Right hind leg moving when being hoisted to bleed out. Hind feet look trimmed.

Horse 15

- 25:53 Bay, with white diamond and strip, green USDA sticker enters stun box. Puts head down immediately to smell floor.
- 26:07 Shot. Can see impact of bullet clearly.
- 26:22 Horse has lifted his/her head and is trembling while looking to his/her left. Horse is quite clearly thrashing in stun box. Thrashing has caused legs to slide under stun box door. Hooves have not been trimmed.

Horse 16

- 27:10 Buckskin gelding, QH, green USDA sticker enters stun box.
- 27:50 Shot
- 28:01 Stops convulsing.
- 28:28 Hoisted to bleed out.

Horse 17

- 28:41 Black draft/cross, gelding, with small star on face enters stun box
- 28:55 Very agitated, ears flicking back and forth.
- 29:21 Tries to turn around gets leg jammed but he pulls it out of side rail.
- 29:26 Constantly trying to turn in the box. Puts his head down in the box smelling.
- 29:50 Shot
- 30:08 He moves his head slowly from side to side.
- 30:44 Bleed out worker opens door then lets it slam against the horse. Horse's hind leg appears to be jammed in door. Second worker comes to assist. First worker repeatedly slams door against horse's body apparently to free the caught leg.
- 32:10 Third worker shows up to assist.
- 32:34 Horse is hoisted to bleed area. (Note that horse has a scar on left side of his face between his eye and nose.)
- 32:45 Suspended for bleed out. Something white like material wrapped around his right hind.

Horse 18

- 32:54 Black gelding, small white star on forehead, unkempt mane enters stun box. Frantic, nervous.
33:17 Worker slams stun box door so that it hits the horse on the side.
33:22 Horse is struggling in stun box.
33:23 Shot.
33:38 Stun box door is opened and there is visible movement of the forelegs as he slides to the bleed out side.

Horse 19

- 34:30 Grey or palomino, gelding, QH type (lighting makes it difficult to determine.) enters stun box.
34:50 Shot.
35:00 Some convulsing.

VIDEO 2 – 08:10amHorse 19 (Con't)

- 00:05 Hoisted to bleed out.

Horse 20

- 00:27 Bay mare with large heart shaped white mark on forehead, TB type enters stun box.
00:35 Looking forward flicking ears.
00:55 Turns away, puts her head down to floor.
01:42 STILL HAS NOT BEEN SHOT.
01:46 Shot.

Horse 21

- 03:07 Bay grade mare with blaze and partially grown back hogged mane enters stun box.
03:15 Head thrust forward towards the shooter's area. Ears flicking nervously.
03:31 Shot.
04:00 There is some body movement.
04:25 Hoisted to bleed out.

Horse 22

- 05:09 Bay gelding, light horse, no facial markings enters stun box.
05:10 Tries to turn around in box.
05:28 Continually trying to turn in box.
05:38 Shot.
05:50 Is down in box and moves head slowly from left to right.
05:59 Stun box door opens and victim falls out having convulsive movement.
06:10 Hoisted to bleed out. Old scar on right hock.

Horse 23

- 06:20 Small mare, grade, chestnut with star and separate snip on face enters stun box.
07:01 Pawing at front of box
07:30 Reaches head out of front of stun box. Very stressed.
07:59 Shot.

08:12 Heavy bleeding.
08:21 Hoisted to bleed out.

Horse 24

08:35 Black mare, grade, no markings, horse enters stun box.
08:55 Whinnies
09:25 Her head appears to be out of the stun box.
09:40 Shot.
09:41 Impact of bullet obvious.
09:42 Rear legs and then all legs kicking for 18 seconds.
10:12 Still some slow movement in the hind end.
10:21 Hoisted to bleed out.

Donkey 25

11:22 Large grey gelding donkey enters stun box.
11:30 Tries to turn around.
11:40 Shot. Barrel of gun visible. Shot from a distance of about one meter away!
11:45 Some twitching in left foreleg.
12:37 Hoisted to bleed out.

Donkey 26

14:08 Smaller, grey, male donkey enters stun box.
14:17 Tries to turn in box.
14:24 Beautiful, big ears moving back and forth nervously.
14:39 Shot.
14:42 Trembling in forelegs with pawing motions for 10 seconds.
15:14 Hoisted to bleed out.

Horse 27

15:55 Large bay with tan marking around mouth horse enters stun box.
16:00 Nervously moving.
16:50 Shot. Impact of bullet obvious.
16:52 Much noticeable leg movement which forces the stun box door partially open.
17:30 Hoisted to bleed out.

Horse 28

17:42 Buckskin mare moves into stun box, green USDA sticker
18:44 Moves forward toward shooter
19:21 Puts head down to smell floor
19:29 Shot
19:40 Violent kicking of hind legs, noticeable body spasms
20:17 Hoisted to bleed out

Horse 29

20:37 Chestnut gelding, Belgian cross with blaze, green USDA sticker enters stun box
20:43 Very nervous
21:17 Tries to turn around in box
21:35 Puts head down to smell floor
21:40 Shot
21:58 Convulsing for 18 seconds

22:20 Hoisted to bleed out
22:25 Right hind leg jerks upwards toward body
22:26 S brand on left shoulder
22:38 Feet not trimmed

Horse 30

22:33 Large paint gelding (brown and white colours) enters stun box
22:50 Lowers head to smell floor
23:12 Moves forward toward shooter
23:26 Nervously moving in box
23:44 Shot
23:58 Violent convulsing for 14 seconds from 23:44
23:58 S brand on left shoulder
24:22 Hoisted to bleed out

Horse 31

24:41 Paint gelding (brown and white) green USDA sticker enters stun box
24:43 Extremely nervous
25:06 Standing far back in box, nervous twitching of head
25:11 Lowers head to smell floor
25:55 Shot
25:55 Impact throws horse backwards in box
26:13 Has been violently thrashing in box and is now on his side facing backwards very much alive
26:20 Has been able to turn over onto his left side with right foreleg pawing under stun box door
26:26 Manages to stand up still facing the back of the stun box
26:29 Shooter seen coming around the side of stun box with gun
26:40 Horse swaying, can see gun barrel at the side of the stun box
26:50 Horse has been lying on his left side for some seconds breathing heavily
26:50 Violent head movement and horse stands up suddenly
27:00 Horse is trying valiantly to stand but is losing footing in bloodied stun box
27:56 There is still some movement from this horse. It appears that the sticker moved the stun box door two times against the horse's body.
28:03 Horse appears to finally be still
28:12 Hoisted to bleed out
28:14 Visible cuts to hind legs

Horse 32

28:35 Chestnut gelding QH type with white star, green USDA sticker enters stun box
28:50 Ears very much forward toward shooter
28:51 Shot
29:11 Some convulsing noticeable for 10 seconds
29:43 Hoisted to bleed out
30:01 Right hind foot well trimmed

Horse 33

30:01 Paint with blaze, green USDA sticker enters stun box
30:21 Nervously looking around
30:29 Pawing
30:36 Shot (impact seen)

30:37 Still standing, trembling visibly
30:50 Lowers head to floor
31:04 Shot again (impact of bullet clearly seen)
31:10 Is down in box but looks up
31:16 Slides down on his right side legs sliding under door
Door bangs back against his body
31:28 Chain has been hooked onto his left hind leg BUT HE IS STILL CONSCIOUS
31:43 THERE IS STILL MOVEMENT OF HIS HEAD
31:34 Whole body convulses and hind legs kick out
31:38 Right hind leg noticeably twitching
31:42 Barrel of gun is visible being aimed at the horse.
31:43 Shot for a third time.
31:47 Right hind leg twitching.
31:52 BEING HOISTED TO BLEED OUT STILL HAVING MOVEMENT.
32:20 Hind feet well trimmed

Horse 34

32:14 Dappled grey gelding enters stun box
32:32 Lowers head to smell floor
32:46 Noticeably agitated, moving in box
32:55 Slipping in box
33:00 Shot
33:02 Heavy bleeding
33:36 Hoisted to bleed out

Horse 35

33:47 Dappled grey gelding enters stun box
33:55 Lowers head smells floor
(The floor is now a blood soaked mess)
34:08 Ears are forward toward shooter
34:18 Horse is still looking intently towards shooter
34:28 Shot
34:30 There is some head movement (twitching)
35:00 Hoisted to bleed out

15 Horses

VIDEO 3 – 8:35am

Horse 35 (Con't)

00:00 Opens with dapple gray, gelding, already sliding through the stun box door into the bleed out area.
00:05 As he slides under the door there is frantic hind leg movement involving both hind legs.
00:25 Hoisted to bleed out. Note that right front foreleg is broken at the pastern.

Horse 36

- 00:41 Chestnut mare, with blaze, green USDA sticker AND WHAT LOOKS LIKE A LARGE PATCH ON THE LEFT SIDE OF THE NECK MISSING HAIR/FLESH (BRAND CUT OFF?) enters stun box.
01:15 Horse has moved forward so that her head is out of the stun box.
01:26 Shot.
01:56 Hoisted to bleed out. She appears to be in foal. Sides are quite rounded.

Horse 37

- 02:10 Chestnut mare, draft type with no face markings, green USDA sticker enters stun box.
02:50 She is very agitated and moving around nervously.
03:34 Shot.
03:35 Some movement for a very few seconds.
04:14 Hoisted into bleed out.

Horse 38

- 05:05 Bay mare, TB type, no face markings, green USDA sticker enters stun box.
05:33 Shot
05:48 Slow movement of head and limb trembling shown.
06:02 While clamp is being put on hind leg there is noticeable twitching of abdominal area.
